The first special musical events featuring Bournville Carillon will be over the Easter period, too.

On Good Friday at 11am there will be a 'Musical Meditation' played by Bournville Carillonneur Trevor Workman.

Trevor will be at the keyboard again at 4pm on Easter Sunday for a 'Songs of Praise' service on Bournville Green, led by Revd. Peter Babbington from St. Francis Church.

On April 23rd the Friends of Bournville Carillon will welcome guest recitalist Dan Kehoe, Carillonneur of Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, who will play the 12-noon recital.

Friends Publicity Officer, Peter Jordan, told Outlook: "At present we're planning how we mark the centenary of the first Bournville Carillon, next year. We are also hoping that we can break through the bureaucracy that prevented Trio Sonata from visiting from Russia last autumn."

One development that has already taken place is the refurbishment of the Carillon Visitor Centre in the Rest House on Bournville Green.

"A small group of dedicated volunteers worked hard during January sprucing up tired paint-work and installing some new display equipment. The Visitor Centre now looks better than ever, so if you haven't been for a while, do come and see!"

Successful completion of the course will result in a recognised trade qualification.

If you would like to be considered for an apprenticeship and you can demonstrate a good education record, ideally having achieved maths, English and a practical subject at GCSE, BVT would like to hear from you.

Carl Chinn listens in

It was all sounding good at Selly Manor Museum in January when Birmingham historian Dr. Carl Chinn dropped in to broadcast live on Radio WM's Ed Doolan Show.

Dr. Chinn interviewed the Heritage Manager Gillian Ellis and Education and Events Officer Daniel Callicott about their work and the history of the buildings before chatting to teacher Mr. Bravey who was leading a trip from Bosworth School.
