

The panel was impressed by Graham's individual initiative and personal commitment to helping others in need. His original idea not only raised funds for food but also brought fun and inspiration to those who took away lovely plants, knowing at the same time that they were helping others.

From the nomination:

I nominate Graham Davies who grew lots of plants at his allotment and had a sale at the end of his drive, donating over £300 to food parcels going out from the Hub to people in need.

He saw the need for people to have green-fingered opportunities and distraction and gave garden therapy to lots of local people at a time when the garden centres were closed and people couldn't get gardening resources.

Lots of people visited the stall with honesty box whilst out on their walks and it brought cheer.
